				The San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department will use RT24 HSCF funds to sustain system software and configuration services for a countywide regional data exchange project used for consolidating usable data in domestic violent extremist incident prevention (formerly the COVLEAK system). The system allows the consolidation of data pertaining to domestic terrorist investigations/activities throughout the region for terrorist prevention. Where communication sharing regarding potential domestic terrorist activities is a weakness, the system will allow for information sharing between law enforcement and communication with other participating agencies, including the DOJ and sources in bordering states, to reduce threats within Western regions. Providing these services to participating agencies reduces costs for those agencies who may otherwise not have funds for such a system. Utilizing funds granted to the County for a shared project strengthens coordination with smaller agencies within the region and with remote agencies who would otherwise not have the financial ability to better guard themselves against possible terror threats. This is an ongoing project where years of data has been collected. As more information is collected, a broad picture of potential threats to the region is more identifiable.
